Summary of reasons for decision:

The computer image file printout shows a teenage girl sunbathing on a grassed area beside a beach or lake. She is wearing a bikini and looking at the camera. The photograph is a relaxed snapshot, and there are other people sunbathing near her. She is not considered to be nude or partially nude in terms of s3(1A) of the Films, Videos and Publications Classification Act 1993 (FVPC Act), nor is there anything else sexual about the image.

As the publication raises no issues under s3(1), s3A or s3B of the FVPC Act, it must therefore be classified as unrestricted. This classification is consistent with the right to freedom of expression as set out in s14 of the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990.
